Statement on California Proposition 65

RECOM products are generally designed for industrial use and therefore are not subject to the application of California Proposition 65.

Nevertheless, to exclude any eventualities, RECOM Power GmbH, Münzfeld 35, 4810 Gmunden, Austria, declares in its capacity as manufacturer that our products meet all federal and state safety standards.

In order to comply with California Proposition 65, we are required to ask our distributors selling our products in California to label the products accordingly. The suggested label format is shown below:

⚠ WARNING: This product can expose you to chemicals including lead, which is known to the State of California to cause cancer and birth defects or other reproductive harm. For more information go to www.P65Warnings.ca.gov/product.

Additional Information: Many electronic components contain traces of lead. Although the levels are low, they are detectable by chemical analysis. Our packaging (boxes, envelopes, tubes and trays) have all been certified as lead-free. The risk of exposure under normal use conditions (handling, soldering or desoldering) is limited.
